War Work at Stivers

RESUME of war work done by Stivers High School at this time is interesting. War activities were begun soon after war was declared in 1914, when girls made candy to sell in the dining room, realizing $50 from their first sale, using the proceeds to buy materials to make into hospital supplies.

Literary societies and the school at large have contributed $315 towards a fund for buying materials for hospital work. The girls of the school have made, in all, 1,978 necessary articles for hospitals, French and Belgium orphans and soldiers.

Boys' and girls' study halls furnished the yarn and made fifteen beautiful afghans for hospitals in France, representing a cost of $160.

Liberty Bonds bought by the teachers and pupils amounted to $4,800. $16,000 of this amount was subscribed during the Fourth Liberty Loan drive last fall.

In addition to this splendid sum invested in bonds, $7,220 has been invested in War Savings Stamps by the school.

The contribution from the school to the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. war fund amounted to $2,500.

In the old shoe campaign 4,500 pairs were donated through the efforts of the school.

Six hundred and fifty members of the Junior Red Cross and 400 girls joined the Patriotic League. The girls devoted much of their school time as well as many hours after school to promote the interests of the League and the Red Cross work.

Stivers' students and teachers contributed 1,000 pieces of linen to the campaign conducted by the local Red Cross.

One thousand French orphans have been adopted by the pupils at Stivers, from whom many interesting and appreciative letters have been received.

Boys' war cooking classes were formed, in which camp cooking was emphasized. It proved a great success.

Many boys, in addition to other kinds of service, spent their vacation in doing useful farm work.

Many patriotic assemblies with War Community signs were the means of keeping the school 100 per cent, prepared to do its share towards winning the war and helping in the reconstruction since the close of the war.

The Service Flag, consisting of 175 stars, 1 Red Cross star, was rededicated in February after an inspiring address by Dr. M. E. Wilson, former pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

A few weeks later a memorial service was ably conducted by Dr. J. G. Huber, pastor of the First U. B. Church, in honor of those who made the supreme sacrifice.

Those who have returned from service abroad as well as at home have received a cordial welcome from their friends and, especially, from their ALMA MATER.

STIVERS

FROM AHEAD TO DUTY

To Our Returned Soldiers

WITH eyes that have sometimes strained to see clearly, but whose vision has suddenly become clear, we turn to greet you. When you were in our midst we saw with blurred vision the promise of initiative, self-reliance and determination—all that makes for splendid manhood—and you have proven yourselves all that we had hoped. You have made it possible by your courage and loyalty for every person to be a free man or woman. We greet you with admiration and joyful hearts!

In days to come we may not often express in words our appreciation of what you have suffered and sacrificed for us, but a sense of the responsibility which you have placed upon us, we shall never lose. It shall be our duty to keep alive in thought, word, and deed the spirit of the democracy for which you fought to make the world safe. With this greeting we pledge ourselves to keep aflame its pure light and to quench any attempt to extinguish it or dim its brightness.

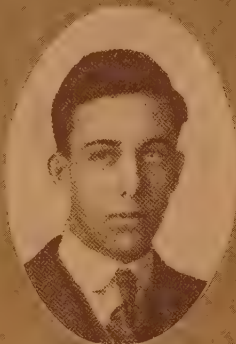

It is an inspiring thought that you have proven that the institution that democracy organized to express itself most thoroughly in times of peace, produced the proper manhood for the effective prosecution of war. We greet you again, then, with pride, for the assurance that the future of our country rests safely with the children of democracy.

We welcome you home with hearts overflowing with praise and thanksgiving for the valor and fortitude you displayed to the world; we join with you in sympathetic grief in the thought of those who gave their all that democracy might live, and we praise God in the hope that your sacrifice may mean a world's peace for evermore.

To My Fallen Comrades

We dedicate this verse to you
Who sleep where not a growing rose
Is left to mark a crimson stain
Upon your graves. The clouds weep rain
That falls upon the war-scarred lane
Where once you went and not in vain
You fell and hallowed weary waste.
A bond, the bond of Khaki, binds
Your hearts and ours. But alas! too late.
We came to your support too late
The great Spring Drive in which we dreamed
To fight with you, you fought alone.
Instead with falling autumn leaves
And glory did you bravely leave
Our peaceful world of leaves and snow
Caressing peaceful graves in France.
Instead this spring will be the drive
Of soft and balmy southern breaths,
Of birds as hordes of them fly north
And winter snow and ice all melt
And rivers plunge into the sea.
The days will longer grow, and flowers
Will bloom again with primal smile.
The blood-stained fingers will each morn
A little sooner tear night's veil
Of sombre blue grey tint.
Rich harvests will be sown and towns
Will be rebuilded, men from camp
Will leave it to return to Home
To live for truth and live to fight
The cause for which you gave your lives.
God grant we prove as true and fine
As you who sleep heroic sleep.
And so these feeble words, this little book
Our praise and pride, a better world
All catch the mirrored light of you
Who sleep a hallowed sleep in France,
And dead, though dead, shall never die.

C. B. T.

At the going down of the sun and in the morning
We will remember them.

Thou gavest much.

Bernard Freeman, '19, enlisted in the United States Aero Service as an apprentice draftsman in January, 1918. He was stationed at Fort Thomas, Kentucky, for several weeks and later was transferred to Camp McArthur, Texas. While there he contracted pneumonia, against which he battled for several weeks. It was not his part to accompany his comrades across the sea, but to make the supreme sacrifice in his own land, March 17, 1918.

Singing he went—song ever on his lips—

Bright Poshpor of clear poesy, whose beams

Still shine on us even in his star's eclipse.

Tom Hawthorn, a Stivers graduate of the class of 1917, was one of the first Dayton boys to answer the call of his country, having enlisted in the field artillery in May, 1917. After several weeks' training at Triangle Park, he left Dayton with his comrades of Battery D for Camp Sheridan, Alabama. On February 14, 1915, he was struck by lightning and was killed immediately. His body was brought to Dayton, accompanied by a military escort of six soldiers.

Yes, he was brave, most brave, with laughter on his lips.

Earl C. Steinman of the '17 class, enlisted April 19, 1917, and joined Co. K of the 148th Infantry, stationed in Cincinnati. He was there about two months when he was sent to Wright Field. Soon his Company left for Camp Sheridan. There he volunteered for service in the Headquarters Department. That Department then left for overseas' duty about four weeks before the 148th left. After arriving overseas he was transferred to the First Division Co. B, 28th Infantry. Before the Battle of the Argonne he volunteered for the First Division Schock Troops. The battle lasted from September 28 to October 7, and it was in this battle that on October 7 he received a mortal wound, resulting in his immediate death. He was buried October 6, 1918, in Grave No. 69, American Cemetery, Chateau-de-Salvange, in Meuse, France.

I never have known anyone so proud so fierce for faith, so strong for nobleness.

Sergeant Ralph B. Clemens, who graduated from Stivers in the class of 1913, entered military service at Camp Sherman, Ohio, on October 3, 1917, as a member of Battery A, 322nd Field Artillery. Ralph saw active service at the front for several months, and lost his life in active service for his country on the morning of November 11th, at Ecurey, France, just a few hours before hostilities ceased.

He was cheerful and smiling and clear-eyed and fine.

Robert S. Bowman, of the '17 class, enlisted April 20th, 1917, at Dayton, and was sent immediately to Fort Leavenworth, thence to Kelly Field, San Antonio, Texas, where he was assigned to the 25th Aero Squadron. He sailed January 8, 1918, for overseas duty. He was sent to Ayr, Scotland, to an Aerial Fighting School. He was sent to France the first part of August, 1918. There his squadron was in the 4th Pursuit Groupe near Toul, France. He was killed in action October 15, 1918. His grave when found by his comrades, March, 1919, had this inscription in German at its head: "Here lies a young American warrior."

*His days have all been splendid days, there lies no broken trust
Along the pathway of his youth to molden in the dust.*

John D. Puckett of Stivers enlisted in Battery D April 26, 1917, and received his military training at Camp Sheridan. He sailed for France June 27, 1918, and was killed near Bordeaux, France, in gun practice, August 27, 1918, on his twentieth birthday.

*He gave himself that he might save
All that a Christian should revere,
All that enlightened men hold dear.*

Clarence Click of the Class of '12, enlisted in Battery D. From Dayton he went to Camp Sheridan, where he remained until June, 1918. Later he sailed for overseas duty and arrived July 10 at Bordeaux. He was killed August 27 by a premature explosion while at range practice, John Puckett being killed by the same explosion. Clarence made the supreme sacrifice in the "line of duty."

Strong to the end, a man of men from out the strife he passed.

Lieutenant Claude J. Brannum graduated from Stivers High School in 1914. He died November 19, 1918, from injuries received in an airplane accident at Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, Mich., on November 15, 1918.

Lieutenant Brannum received his early training at the school of Military Aeronautics, Ohio State University. Early in January, 1918, he was sent to the School of Military Aeronautics at the University of California, Berkley, Cal., where he completed his ground training. Flying instructions were received at Rockwell Field, San Diego, Cal., Post Field, Fort Sill, Okla., and Taliaferro Field, Fort Worth, Texas. After completing his training he was ordered to Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, Mich., where he was an instructor up to the time of his death.

*He leaves a white
Unbroken glory, a gathered radiance;
A width, a shining peace, under the night.*

Stanley Whitcomb of the '16 class met his death accidentally at the post of duty in Fort Wadsworth, New York. He was hurt on the 17th and lived ten days. Chaplain Weber wrote of him: "To me he was like a child with beautiful thoughts, a pure heart and a clear eye. Isn't it a comfort to you to know that his life was worth while, and that others saw the beautifulness of it, and that in his own quiet way he, too, preached many a sermon by his living?" He was buried in Woodland Cemetery, and was accorded full military honors.

Delightful task! to rear the tender thought,
To teach the young idea how to shoot,
To pour the fresh instruction o'er the mind,
To breathe the enliv'ning spirit, and to fix
The generous purpose in the glowing heart.

To let the way wind up the hill and down,
O'er rough or smooth, the journey will be joy,
Still seeking what I sought when but a boy,
Now friendship, high adventure, and a crown,
My heart will keep the courage of the quest
And hope the road's last turn will be the best.

CLYDE M. CLARK

Clyde M. Clark was born in the City of Dayton July 6th, 1891. His death occurred September 15th, 1918. Thus it would seem that while his sun was high in the heavens, scarcely reaching mid-day, that suddenly darkness closed in upon him and his labors brought to an abrupt close. He came upon the stage of action, quickly played his part, then stepped off again. In so doing he made a place for himself in the hearts of loved ones and society in general. He loved and was loved. He lived and worked and suffered. Faithfulness, determination and devotion were among the leading qualities of his character. He served in the class room as a faithful teacher to the end, though toward the close with great hardship because of physical weakness. He has finished the journey of life and has bidden us an affectionate farewell. In our grief we sigh for the home sensed by the poet in the following lines:

*Oh! where shall human grief be stilled
And joy for pain be given,
Where dwells the sunshine of a love
In which the soul may always rove?
A sweet voice answered—heaven
O, heart, I said, when death shall come
And all thy cords be riven,
What lies beyond the swelling tide?
The same sweet voice to mine replied—Heaven.*

ANNUAL

“A sunset glory lingers on the hills.
The valleys lie in shadow, deep as when
Dull, weary clouds drift slowly o’er the sun.
The air is clear and still, save now and then
A murmur in the pines, that skirt the way.”

“I think with pain that those great earnest souls
All burning with the love of truth and right,
Who shed new light upon their fellowmen
To guide them through the mazes of this world,
Who climb the blue of Heaven and cross its span—
Must too, at last, sink sadly from our sight,
As does the sun at eve.”

“And yet if through life’s day they’ve shed the light
Of love and truth and kindness to all men,
And if the atmosphere through which they shone
Grew thereby sweet, and so is calm and fair,
However sad the hearts that know their loss,
However deep the shadows in the vales,
A sunset glory lingers on the hills.”

What I have
Looked upon is writ upon my heart.

Looking Backward

"Well," laughed Grandad, with sparkling eyes, as he dangled the youngest on his knee. "What shall it be tonight, a song, a story, or a ———?"

"Hurrah!" came from Tommy at the top of his voice. "A story, a story, and a true one, too, please, huh, Grandpa?"

"Well," and Grandpa cleared his throat, while the little ones nestled closer in anxious expectation, for to their eyes the gentle old man was the very prince of story tellers. "It was way back in 1915, sure, I remember it, as if it were yesterday, that a fine bunch of youngsters found their cherished dreams coming true. You see they had just entered Parker High School, and after the timidity that enveloped them at first had worn off, they settled down to having a good time; mixed, perhaps, here and there, judiciously, with a wee bit o' study."

"As if it wasn't enough to be really and truly High School students, they had to astonish the whole country with their part of the splendid pageant, given in honor of the great Shakespeare; and the games, Oh, those games."

"What did they play, Grandpa?" came from one of the little tots, and they breathlessly hung on their Grandfather's answer.

"Oh!" said the old man. "There was basketball, and baseball games between the different floors, and a great big track meet in which the whole school took part. How the eyes of the lads and lassies did light up when they viewed those brilliant contests. But, alas, there is an end to everything and soon the summer of '16 rolled 'round and the first year was over.

"There is an old saying that civilization moves westward, but this was certainly disproven when two hundred and fifty of that mighty class gladdened the halls of Stivers in the fall. With three years before them, those energetic sophomores were soon acting as if the whole world were at their feet, and all the knowledge of the universe locked up in their nimble brains.

"But, soon, too soon, was that joy banished from the hearts of the young ones, and their days were wrapped in misery and in gloom; for Stivers, the Invincible Stivers, had gone down in defeat before the mighty quintet from Huron, and the State Championship was gone from Stivers, but not forever. 'Tis true that they had defeated Steele, their hereditary foe in football; but that balm refused to soothe the basketball wounds.

"With lightning speed the end of the Sophomore days came, and with it came a wave of excitement that swept over the school, for seventeen of Stivers' best answered our country's call, ready to take their part in the great struggle 'Over There.'

"Next, came the Junior year, and surely they were men now, was the thought that crept into each one, as he sat dreaming of his future greatness when he should have been studying. Yet, how busy were they that year. Campaign followed campaign in bewildering fashion; more and more boys were off for the training camps of our country, while Success perched upon the banner of Stivers in football, basketball and track.

"At last, 'they were monarchs of all they surveyed,' they were the haughty Seniors, and it was necessary for their inferiors, the Juniors and Sophomores, to salaam deeply before them. What a year that was. Again the Basketball Championship of Ohio was brought back to Stivers, the team going through the season without a single defeat.

"But a note of sadness was felt throughout the school. Of the hundred and seventy-five that were in the Country's service, eight had made the supreme sacrifice, had given their all, in order that you, my children, might laugh, and run, and play.

"That memorable day in June came, all too soon for some, and how the faces shone, how the radiant spirit gleamed forth from their eyes, as they slowly moved toward their reward, the prize that all would hold so dearly.

"There," exclaimed Grandfather, as two tears glistened in his eyes. "I have talked and talked, and talked, and it's time for young folks like you to be in bed. Off with you at once."

"Oh, Grandpa!" piped up George. "Wasn't you with all those people?"

His thin shoulders straightened, his eyes took on a proud light, and the old man answered: "Yes, laddie, I was a member of the Class of Nineteen."

Lloyd McGinnis.

*I stand alone at dusk time and the sun
Is gone, the few faint shades still left beget
The thought of things I cast aside, as yet
Unfinished, and some task not begun.
Lost are the glories that I might have won,
And lost the Challenge of the day unmet;
And gone, they leave me darkness and regret.
Oh, Stivers and the day is done.
And come, then promise. And away that thought that ties
My heart. The yet-to-be the sadness stills.
No dusk but what again the sun must rise,
And this the half-breathed wish fulfills.
Yes, out there in the stillness lies
A new tomorrow just beyond the hills.*

WORDS BY RUBY WEIDNER.

MUSIC BY JOY IKE.

We are here tonight dear classmates to bid our last fore-well To the school which in our mem'ry will now for ev-er dwell for the days of joy are ov-er and our many pleasures past And we find that duty calls us as up-on Life's way we're cast.

To our dear old Alma Mater
Of Honor and of Fame
We will pledge to you allegiance
To ever uphold your name
For from you we've gained ideals
The greatest and the best
And from you we've learned the lesson
That will aid us in Life's quest.

May you always be victorious
Whatever you undertake
May the grit that made you champions
Bring triumphs in its wake.
Comrades dear of nineteen nineteen
It is time to say goodbye
To the school we love so dearly
To our own old Stivers High.

BASKETBALL TEAM

Basket Ball Review

The basketball season of '18-'19 has been the most successful ever enjoyed by either a Stivers team or any team in Ohio. There have been twenty straight victories to our credit, as well as the City, Southern and State Championships.

The chief event of the season was the winning of the State Championship. After an enthusiastic send-off by the student body, the team, with a record of fourteen straight victories, left for the semi-finals at Delaware. In the first two games Stivers did not meet with much opposition, easily defeating Grove City and Lancaster. In the next game, however, two undefeated teams, Stivers and Portsmouth, were matched. After one of the hardest fought battles in the tournament Stivers proved to be the winner with the large end of the score 20-17. By defeating Cambridge, Stivers earned the right to return for the finals.

Accompanied by some three hundred rooters the team left for the contest, confident of bringing home the State Championship. In the morning game Stivers defeated our old rival, Marietta, thus gaining the Southern Championship. The winner of the Northern Championship was East Tech of Cleveland, whom we were scheduled to play in the afternoon. This game was the battle royal of the tournament. With but eight minutes of the second half remaining and only four men on the floor, by fighting desperately, Stivers was able to win, with a score of 25-22.

Because of their splendid playing, three of the boys were placed on all State teams, Sifford as forward on the first team, and Harry and Harvey Schwab as center and guard on the second.

This remarkable record was due to the hard work of the boys, the capability of the coach and the faithfulness of the second team. All honor to the team of '19!

W. H. MARQUARDT—Coach

Our coach has led us to gain victory. He has inspired us to play honestly and to fight persistently. He has helped us to respect strong bodies and clean minds. He is a true leader of Stivers' young manhood.

HARRY SCHWAB, Captain—Center

Harry, the tall center, was a model captain. He was a leader who could hold his men and could play the game. Harry was picked as center on the All State second team as well as on the All Southern team.

STIVERS

WILLIAM MANCHESTER—Forward

Although "Bill" entered school a little late, he soon made the team and was a great help to it. "Bill" was the tank who plowed through and over obstacles. Nothing daunted him. Stand, "Bill," to receive honor and tribute from your fellow-classmates!

FRED SIFFORD—Forward

This chap had all the critics at the tournament watching him because of his dribbling and his well-known loop-shot. He was the only Stivers player placed on the All State team.

MAX MATTUSOFF—Forward

Max, although he did not get to play in all the games, was considered a first-class player. He is a good shot and a star floor-man. He could always be depended upon in a pinch.

ANNUAL

HARVEY SCHWAB—Guard

"Hass" certainly did make good in his first year in high school athletics, making the first team in football as well as being chosen guard on the All-Southern basketball team.

JAKE MATTUSOFF—Forward

"Jake" was the real surprise of the basketball team. Small but mighty! As swift as Pegasus! He always surprised his opponents. This cricket could not be kept from making baskets. He saved the minute at the tournament.

SAMUEL WARD—Guard

This is the fellow who was all over the floor at the same time. "Sam" could always be found fighting from the beginning until the end of the game. He knew no fear.

FOOTBALL TEAM

Football Review

The outlook for a successful football season was very bright until the influenza forced the school to close. Although practice was carried on daily, and a very good football machine was developed, it was impossible to schedule any games. In the few games that the team played it was quite evident that the material for a successful team was on hand and would probably have shone itself if the team had been permitted to play more games.

With nearly every player from this year's team returning to school next year, the coach and the players are predicting one of the most successful teams ever put out by Stivers.

SAMUEL WARD, CAPTAIN—Quarterback

“Sammy,” otherwise known as the “Speed Demon,” was elected captain because of his sterling qualities and his ability as a player. “Sam” was a great aid to his team through his end-running, his punting and drop-kicking.

JACOB GABLER—Right End

Last year's "Annual" told us to watch "Jake." We did, and he certainly gave us the results. "Jake" is bashful, but it soon disappears when he is on the playing field.

WESLEY BARTELS—Full Back

"Weck" is one of those pleasant surprises one is bound to meet if he lives long enough. This "lengthy one" made a "hit" and we feel confident that he will make a name for himself next year.

HARVEY SCHWAB—Left Half

This was "Hass'" first year at football, but he distinguished himself at half through his plunging. In writing for next year we are not mentioning this man's name to our opponents.

CLETUS SILLIN—Right Half

What would a team be without a "Clete?" Wherever there was a bunch of knees and elbows, "Clete" could be found in the midst of them. He was one of the outstanding stars of the Steele-Stivers tussle.

DAVID SNYDER—Right Guard

"Zeke" is only a Sophomore, but he certainly is a wise one. When he has had two or more years of football experience, can any one imagine the outcome?

HARRY WILHELM—Left End

Harry plugged up what was thought would be a big gap in the line. Harry was always there with the "pep," although he was hindered by a bad shoulder throughout a great part of the season.

VERNON TIMMERMAN—Center

"Tinnie" was usually outweighed by his opponent, but was never outplayed by him. Whenever some one was needed to break through the line, "Tim" would push forward. No wall could stop him.

STEPHEN ZAPPE—Right Tackle

"Steve" certainly had a real job before him when he was chosen to fill the position left vacant by the injured Stevens. But it can be said that he filled the position to a queen's taste.

HOWARD THIELE—Left Guard

This boy is what you could call the original "Flying Dutchman." Whenever he hit the opposing line you could always hear the crash. We'll watch Thiele next year.

ERNEST ALTICK—End

Although "Ernie" did not play in all the games, he was always ready on the side lines. He never failed to respond to the call for aid.

BERNARD STEVENS—Right Tackle

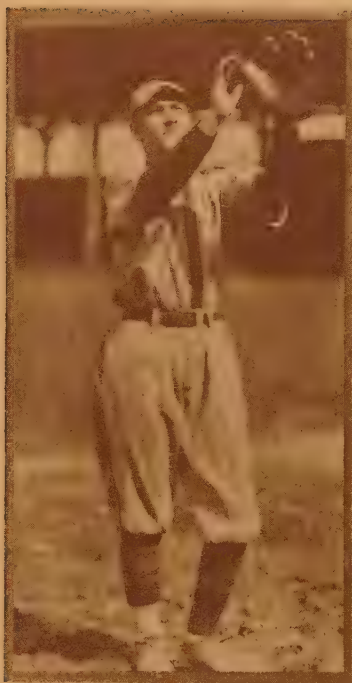

"Steve" surely must be followed by a "jinx," for this is the second season that he was forced from playing with the team on account of injuries. The School hopes that "Steve" will have better luck next year.

BASEBALL TEAM

ANNUAL

MAX MATUSOFF—Captain

A real "Doyle" is our Max. We will miss him next year—his jovial spirit, his keen enthusiasm, his excellent playing.

— STIVERS SONG —

Music by
Mrs. Ada Clyde Gallagher, '15

It was the good ship Stivers High That sailed up on life's changing sea. Her sails were spread, all spirits high, A gallant crew had she Her port shown far, a distant star Her goal ideals at-tained. And every year that she had sailed New laurels she had gained. Heigho heigho
Stivers High Heave ho lads with a joyful cry Good luck good luck
Stivers High Sail on Stivers High.

Drawn by
Geo Heathman

But lo, a change comes o'er the sea
The storm king's banner far is flung
The pilot starts, 'Ahoy!' cries he,
'Another victory won.'
Then every lad springs to his place,
The lasses cheer them on,
And though great storms come on a pace,
They staunchly sing this song.

Each year the good ship touches port
And sets ashore an eager crew
Come battles now of every sort
To Stivers we'll be true.
Each eye is trained, trained is each hand
Life's lessons we'll learn well,
And in our hearts on sea or land
These words shall ever dwell.

Calendar

Ding-dong, September the third,
And school begins today;
The students are back at Stivers I've heard—
For a year of work and play.

Sept. 4—Joyful Day—Regular schedule. A few lessons are assigned and work begins.

Sept. 19—Memorial Assembly for Mr. Clark, one of our family.

Sept. 20—The Senior girls give a reception for their Sophomore sisters.

Sept. 27—Mr. Elias and Mrs. Chrisman explain the Fourth Liberty Loan.

Sept. 29—Liberty Loan Parade. The girls wear red, white and blue caps.

Oct. 1—Old Clothes Campaign starts. Mr. Lefkowitz urges the boys and girls of Stivers to help.

Oct 9—Influenza increases. School closes.
